WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE CRACK-DOWN ON COMBUSTIBLE CLADDING IN QUEENSLAND AND HOW IT AFFECTS YOU

The Building and Other Legislation (Cladding) Amendment Regulation 2018 (Qld) has been in force since 1 October 2018 and has brought with it a host of inspection and reporting obligations for owners of private buildings in Queensland. The purpose of the regulation is to ensure that the use of combustible cladding in private buildings can be assessed and managed effectively. It is now more important than ever for participants in the building industry to be aware of the obligations and risks that arise out of the focus on combustible cladding.

Join us to hear our views on the new regulation and the ways in which the crack down on combustible cladding will affect you and your business, including answering questions about change of ownership, what could happen to you if a building is affected by non-conforming combustible cladding and most importantly, who will pay.

This seminar is for building owners, builders, engineers and certifiers alike and will be presented by Brett Bassett, QBCC Commissioner and the Thomson Geer Construction team.
