Sangeeta Venkatesan is a highly sought-after speaker, media commentator, judge for awards functions and thought leader across banking, finance, superannuation, investing, fin-tech, and gender equality.

Having worked in the banking and finance sector for more than 23 years, Sangeeta's experience spans several continents at some of the most prominent and globally recognised firms, including Commonwealth Bank, Goldman Sachs, Lehman Brothers/ Nomura, Morgan Stanley and KPMG.

She is no stranger to breaking through the glass ceiling. Thus far she is the only female to date who has been the CEO of a stockbroking firm (APP Securities) in Australia.

Other senior positions she has held include Global Chief Operating Officer for the Foreign Exchange Division at CBA, Global COO for Credit Products at Nomura, and most recently, Executive Chairman of FairVine Super, Co-Founder of Applegrove Capital and Board Member of Women in Banking and Finance.

Recently, Sangeeta also won 'Innovator of the Year' at Money Management and Super Review's Women in Financial Services Awards 2019.

She is a keen advocate for gender equality and sustainable investing, and is frequently asked to author articles, present keynotes, lead roundtables and participate in panel discussions.

Current topics Sangeeta is interested in speaking about include:

- ◆ How product innovation is the missing piece in the superannuation industry that will help drive better retirement outcomes.
- ◆ What women need to do today to be financially independent in the years to come.
- ◆ Why designing and basing wealth decisions on fees and returns alone is a mistake.
- ◆ Sustainable investment and use of technology to drive better outcomes.
- ◆ Leadership styles and breaking the glass ceiling in banking and finance.

Sangeeta is also open to workshopping alternative angles that fall within the space of superannuation, fin-tech, sustainable investing and women's leadership and empowerment for the right opportunities.
